Amazing Marksmanship Sets
Them Apart From Youth
of Rest of World

RING UP RECORDS

Blue-Jackets Carry Peace-Time
Skill Into War of The Pacific

By Ralph B. Jordan
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

ABOARD A MAN-O-WAR WITH THE U. S. PACIFIC FLEET, Feb. 3—(INS)—The mountain boys with their squirrel rifles and the juvenile shooting gallery experts from the cities have grown up and now handle rifles of considerably longer range and larger caliber, but they've lost none of the amazing skill with firearms which sets American boys apart from the youth of the rest of the world.

For years, during the recent era of deceptive peace, gunners of the United States Fleet rung up records which were challenged in vain by the other great powers. And now our blue-jackets have carried their peace-time skill and accuracy undiminished into the unrelenting war in the Pacific.

During the past few hours the heavy cruiser on which this correspondent is riding in an occasional successful search for hostile craft far from American shores has been jumping, shivering and shaking like a giant with a sharp attack of tropical fever, the result of a session which the above mentioned grown up boys have had with the oversized weapons entrusted to their capable hands.

Through a pair of powerful glasses from the communications bridge I checked their efforts and can fervently add I'm glad this ship is not on the distant horizon, at least not at the point where our gunners have been concentrating their attentions.

A general quarters alarm preceded the gunplay. By the time I ran from my room to the bridge, all officers and men were at battle stations, every gun

SOME FUN!

(By "The Stroller")

A young Bristol man and his fiancée, a resident of Eddington, had "some fun" a few days ago at the performance of "Sons of Fun," the uproarious comedy now running in New York City.

When Olsen and Johnson, the two professional "funsters," asked if there were any engaged couples in the audience, the young woman raised her hand. The story is that her fiancé was too bashful. Escorted to the stage, the young woman was asked if she had an engagement ring, and she proudly showed it gleaming on her third finger. She was then presented with a package, which contained another nice engagement ring, the instructions being that if it did not fit, to take it to any jeweler, have it made the correct size, and also engraved, the bill to be sent to the "Sons of Fun" company.

When he started off the stage, the Bristolian was called back. "We have another gift for you" was the information given him. "What is it?" asked the wary one. "Come here, and you'll find out," was the answer. Whereupon he returned to the stage and was instructed to kiss his fiancée. The occasion was accompanied by thundering applause.

LATEST WAR BULLETINS

MacArthur's Forces Repel Two More Invasion Threats

Washington—Gen. Douglas MacArthur reported to the War Department today that his American-Philippine forces had repelled two more savage Japanese invasion thrusts, as a review of American land, sea and air operations in the Far East indicated that Japan to date has lost 20 to 25 per cent of its total naval strength.

Latest dispatches from MacArthur indicated savage fighting on land, during which the defenders launched a successful counter attack, while American pursuit planes and artillery fire smashed an invading convoy on the west coast of Bataan.

Heartening news was the fact that MacArthur's comparatively small air force still was able to take to the air and inflict serious damage on the invader.

The War Department's communique pointed out that the planes now are taking the air at night.

It was stated further that MacArthur's troops had inflicted "heavy casualties in men and boats" on the Japanese.

Soviets Lose Crimean Port of Theodosia

Moscow—Loss of the southeast Crimean port of Theodosia was admitted by the Soviet high command today in a communique which acknowledged that Nazi counter attacks had spread to several sectors of the front.

But at most points, it was stated, the Red armies still retain the initiative. Latest reports from the front said the Nazis, in a supreme effort to stem the swift Russian advances, were launching violent counter attacks on various sectors of the front.

But these advances related the Russians were successfully repelling the German assaults and inflicting heavy losses on the Nazis.

British Continue Offensive In Libya

Cairo—British mobile forces in the Libyan desert are continuing their "offensive activities" and "engaging the enemy wherever he is found," the British Middle East command announced today.

The new British offensive on the Libyan front centered in the area north-east of Msus.

It developed after the British launched a series of counter-attacks to stem the Axis drive which was aimed at the strategic supply port of Derna.

Member of Bristol Township Faculty to Train in Army

A member of the faculty of Bristol Township Junior High School, Richard M. Young, is among those who will leave this week for army training, being called to service through Bucks County Draft Board No. 2.

Mr. Young, a resident of North Pennsylvania avenue, Morrisville, is the son of Aaron Young. He has been teaching physical education in the township junior high school, being located at Croydon.

Young, a graduate of Morrisville high school, where he was outstanding in athletics, also graduated from West Chester State Teachers College.

OVER 2800 AUTO USE STAMPS SOLD LOCALLY

That Number Disposed Of At
Post Office and Sub-Stations
Here by February 2nd

SOME BUY FOR GROUPS

Over 2800 auto use stamps were sold at the Bristol post office and the two local sub-post offices up to late yesterday afternoon, states Postmaster Joseph P. Duffy.

Under the law, it is required that a Federal use tax stamp be affixed to each automobile using the highways. This group includes pleasure cars, trucks, and motorcycles.

The personnel of the post office was greatly taxed during the past few weeks as motor vehicle owners applied for the stamps. They were also sold at the sub-post offices at Fabian's Drug Store, Radcliffe and Mulberry streets; and at Finegan's Drug Store, Farragut avenue.

In many instances, states Postmaster Duffy, one person would apply for stamps for one, two or three friends.

In many cases stamps would be purchased for whole fleets of cars, these including those owned by industrial plants, automobile dealers, etc.

The cost of auto use stamps will drop each month until July 1st, when auto owners will again be required to purchase a stamp for the car, at that time the price for a stamp for one year's use being $5.

Plan Bazaar Tonight For Benefit of Synagogue Here

This evening there will be a bazaar in the Synagogue of Avath Achim on Pond street to which the general public is invited. A program of entertainment consisting of games, movies and dancing will be provided.

The Rev. Jacob Abramovitz, pastor of the congregation, will deliver an address; and Louis Dries, president of the congregation, will also speak.

The proceeds are to be used for the benefit of the synagogue.

MERCURY AT 8

With the mercury going down to eight early this morning, a stiff wind added to the bitterness of the elements. The temperature did not get above 27 throughout yesterday, and a steady decline was noted in the mercury from four o'clock p. m. when it stood at 31, until this morning at six o'clock, when it struck eight above zero.

One Man's Opinion

By Walter Kiernan
I. N. S. Staff Writer

We interrupt the defense bond program to bring you a special announcement—the Democratic Party needs 600,000 potatoes to close the lease on the third term.

As our typewriter repair man wrote feelingly today: "Now is the time for all good men to come to the aid of their party."

The Democrats made a down-payment on hold-over occupancy of the White House and the rental agent is beginning to look down his nose and breathe hard.

Wars are won in the sweat of man's brow but elections come out of his pants pockets.

The will of the people was supported with a considerable number of "see me later" contributions which Ed Flynn now wishes to convert into tin.

The annual fund-raising dinner has been switched from Jackson's Day to Washington's Birthday.

Party historians discovered that Washington had a better idea of what to do with a dollar.

Thought for the day: If Morgenthau doesn't get you, Flynn will.

START WORK OF BUILDING PLANT TO LOAD MUNITIONS FOR UNITED STATES NAVY ON FARM AT EMILIE

Russell Stackhouse Farm of 133 Acres Taken Over by Hunter
Manufacturing Corporation — Work of Clearing Ground Gets Underway — Expect To Start Production About May

Announcement was made this morning that the 133-acre farm known as the Russell Stackhouse farm, Emilie, and now owned by the Hunter Manufacturing Corporation, is to be the site for a United States Navy munition loading plant.

Hunter Manufacturing Corporation is now in the process of clearing, grading, road building, etc., on this Emilie property preparatory to the actual construction of the plant. It is stated that a million dollar investment is planned, with actual construction scheduled to start next week. A protective fence is now being placed around the property.

The Foundation and Construction Corporation, New York, has the contracts for the erection of the plant which will be owned by Hunter Manufacturing Corporation. The new plant will be devoted exclusively to the work for the United States Navy.

ARE YOU DISPLAYING A FLAG EVERY DAY?

Flags and Flag Sets Are Easily
Obtained Locally Beginning
Tomorrow

EXPECT A BIG DEMAND

Are you displaying an American flag from your place of business or residence?

The flag display in Bristol is woefully short of what it should be.

One of the local service clubs has urged that flags be more generally displayed from not only residences and places of business, but from the local industries as well. Flags do fly each day from a number of the industries here, but not from them all. Some of the stores in various sections of the Borough are also displaying flags in front of their places of business, each day. The two local banking institutions are displaying flags every day, and the flags are being flown from school buildings here.

The Bristol Courier, having noted that not nearly as many flags are being displayed here as should be, made a hasty survey and found that a number of people do not have flags but are willing to purchase them at a medium price. A number of inquiries have also been made at the Courier office within the past few weeks, as to where medium-priced flags could be obtained locally, and that if The Bristol Courier had any for distribution such as were distributed two years ago.

Noting that there was a general demand for flags here, The Bristol Courier arranged with a nationally-known manufacturer for a supply. This supply is limited. We may be able to obtain an additional supply and then we may not. Therefore, no promises can be made.

In order to obtain either a flag or a flag set, six consecutively-numbered coupons must first be clipped from The Courier. These coupons are published each day. The flags and flag sets will be sold to Courier subscribers only for 85 cents and $1.45, respectively. If you are not now a subscriber you cannot obtain either a flag or a flag set unless you subscribe for two months. Coupon number 6 will appear in Wednesday's Courier, and then the flag sets and flags will be available. You must have the coupons and you must be a Courier subscriber. Flags or flag sets will not be reserved; none will be delivered, and none will be charged.

TO HAVE NEW OFFICES

The Inter-County Hospitalization Plan, which for the past five years has been housed in the Abington Memorial Hospital, will move on Saturday to its new offices at Easton Road and Wesley avenue, Glenside. The Plan will occupy the former Glenside Trust Company building, which has been completely renovated.

BOY FOR ANENS

EDGELY, Feb. 3—Mr. and Mrs. Walter Anen are rejoicing over the birth of a son born Monday morning.

FLAG COUPON—No. 5

If you are a subscriber to The Bristol Courier, bring six of these consecutively numbered coupons with $1.45 to the office of The Courier and you will receive a handsome deluxe American flag set, 60 inches by 36 inches.

Or you may have the flag alone in the same size, 60 inches by 36 inches, for six coupons and 85 cents.

If you do not now subscribe to The Bristol Courier you may have either the set or the flag by paying the amount stated above, and subscribing for The Bristol Courier for two months, paying six cents a week for your paper.

Machinery for the plant is being made at the present time in the Croydon plant of the Hunter firm. Experiments have been conducted for some time in the "pilot plant," present loading plant of the Hunter firm, and special machinery is being made for the new Emilie factory.

"Hopes of getting into production by the first of May, or maybe earlier, depending upon the speed of construction, weather, etc." was voiced by a Hunter spokesman today.

Approximately 300 male and female employees are expected to be employed, and plans are being made to use just as many local residents as possible. Girls are expected to do a major portion of the small jobs on the assembly lines and in other phases of the work that do not require a great amount of physical effort.

The Hunter Manufacturing Corporation officials stressed the fact this morning that no applications for positions will be received at the present time. After work has progressed much further, due notice will be given through advertising mediums, etc., so that registrations of applicants for employment can be made.

Lower Bucks Towns Aid Charities Campaign

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 3—At the end of the first week of the United Charities Campaign, District 148, comprising Cornwells, Andalusia and Edgington in Lower Bucks County, led the entire campaign with 101.4% of quota. It was announced today by United Charities headquarters at 123 S. Broad street.

Mrs. A. Mercer Biddle, of Andalusia, is director of District 148 and is being assisted by 20 volunteer workers in the three towns.

"The whole-hearted support of the people of this section," said Mrs. Biddle, "certainly indicates that the public is well aware of the importance of the 1942 United Charities Campaign. Never before have contributions been so willingly and generously made. However, much of the credit for the excellent record of Andalusia, Cornwells and Edgington in the campaign should go to the volunteer workers in this district. Only by their enthusiastic effort could we have passed our quota in the first five days of the campaign."

EDGELY

Miss Ann Holzworth, a student at Hood College, Md., spent Thursday until Monday with Mr. and Mrs. Russell W. DeLong, North Radcliffe street.

In The Various Communities

CLEANED BY REPORTERS

Over 400 persons on Wednesday attended the sale of cattle, crops and farming implements at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Horace LaRue, on the Cold Spring Creamery road, near Doylestown.

Mr. and Mrs. LaRue, who have sold their farm to Charles W. Miller, Doylestown, have purchased the property of Mr. and Mrs. Norman C. Jones, West Oakland avenue, Doylestown.

Included among the cattle sold were 13 Guernsey and Jersey cows and nine heifers of the same breeds. Cows ranged in selling price from $93 to $150, and the heifers brought from $34 to $56. A horse went to the high bidder for $200, and this was considered to be a very good figure.

The sale was featured also by the disposal of 700 bushels of corn at 89 cents a bushel. Seven tons of hay brought $20 per ton and six tons of straw sold well at $15.75 per ton.

Members of the Warrington Lions Club were the guests of the Perkaste Lions Club at a largely attended meeting held in the Union Hotel, Perkaste, last week.

HARD TO BELIEVE

It doesn't pay to be smug these days—in fact, it's almost impossible. Pearl Harbor stunned complacent Americans. The Malayan surge of the Japanese was a rude jolt to Britishers. General MacArthur's stand in the Philippines and fierce Allied blows at Jap ships must have taken the Tokyo war lords down a peg. And Stalin's rout of the Nazis in Russia still has Adolf explaining to his subjects.

But these are military matters concerning which the average citizen can hardly qualify as an expert. The public isn't nearly so well informed about military matters as it thinks it is about other subjects—feminine beauty, for instance.

Ask any American and he'll tell you that American women are the most beautiful in the world. He knows that to be a fact just as he knows a dime is a tenth part of a dollar. He's smug about it.

But now look what happens. The bureau of home economics in Washington releases the shattering information that the average American woman is dumpy. It says she is short, heavy for her height, thick-waisted and hippy (average measurement 38.82 inches). It says the women of New Jersey are the shortest, heaviest and thickest (physically). And it adds that the best-built women in the United States are to be found—of all places—Arkansas.

The dictionary says complacency is a state of serene self-satisfaction, but if any more things like the report of the bureau of home economics happen, the dictionary people are going to have to put "obsolete" after the definition. If American men cannot have their belief in the beauty of American women, then nothing's sacred any more. And that is why they rebel at acceptance of that 38.82 measurement as precise and authoritative.

TO KNIT OR NOT TO KNIT

This war is not following the pattern of World War I. During the last war, practically every woman in the country was engaged in knitting for the soldiers and sailors. The danger of having a knitting needle stuck in one's eye was ever present. No reliable statistics on the casualties are available, but they must have been enormous.

In this war, the government is opposed to wholesale looting of yarn for the armed forces, just as, in another sense, it is opposed to wanton spinning of yarns.

The War Production Board takes the position that the average soldier or sailor is adequately clothed by the government and does not need additional clothing. But there are exceptions. The W.P.B. does want women to knit sweaters in instances where they are absolutely needed by the armed forces and in cases where the commanding officers ask for the supplies.

R. R. Guthrie, chief of the textile division of the board, asserts that the boys in Iceland constitute such an exception. They can make good use of additional clothing. The same may be true of soldiers sent into the field on long campaigns.

Obviously what the government seeks to avoid is a national knitting campaign which would consume millions of yards of wool needed for other purposes. Organizations such as the Red Cross are aware of the government's needs and are well informed on the existence of special cases in which knitted garments are needed.

Has Phila. Post After 22 Years Spent at Sea

tion, Norfolk, Va. In June, 1919, at the completion of training he was transferred to the battleship Texas. In July, 1919, in company with the battle force, the Texas was sent to the West coast by way of the Panama Canal. In 1924 he returned to the East coast.

In 1925 he was discharged after six years of service and immediately re-enlisted at the Navy Yard, Washington, D. C. He was again sent to the West coast for duty on the battleship

Arizona. He was assigned to the battle station of gun pointer in one of the turrets and that year won a Navy "E," the highest award for accurate gun fire and $20 in prize money.

In 1929 the Arizona was sent East for modernization and he was transferred to the battleship Nevada, which had just completed modernization. He was assigned to the station of main battery director operator and fired the main battery of ten 14-inch guns simultaneously during the calibration of those new guns. He held that important station for five years and again won the Navy "E."

In 1930 he was co-swain of a sail boat in a free-for-all race over a five-mile course. He won that race in competition with ten other boats and received a coveted trophy.

He was advanced to his present rating of chief boatswain's mate in 1935, and was transferred to the Argonne, flagship of the base force. He was given command of a navy fuel oil barge, of which he was captain and navigator. It was based at San Pedro, Calif., and supplied the fleet with fuel oil. He went to Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, with the oil barge in 1940 and remained there until he underwent a major operation in April, 1941. He was then sent to the United States for hospitalization. After his discharge from the hospital in May, 1941, he was sent to the troop transport Biddle, from which he was assigned to his present duty.

Chief Zogorski has crossed the Panama Canal eight times and the equator twice. He has visited many foreign ports during his 23 years of service. These include Valparaiso, Chile; London, England; Brest and Paris, France; Amsterdam, Holland; Antwerp and Brussels, Belgium; Spain, Gibraltar, Northern Africa, the weeds, and long since without water. Everywhere guards, with fixed bayonets, walked their posts, and inside the spacious courtyard about fifty prisoners moved back and forth, like animals in a cage, talking in low voices. They were French officers of every grade from lieutenants to a solitary general. The German officer's staff car stood out in front.

"Looks as though this is going to be our happy home for the duration of hostilities," Rusty said, and made a wry face.

"Or until—" Hutch began, but left the sentence unfinished.

The guard halted in front of a small stone house, covered with ivy from the roof to the ground. It was of the same epoch as the chateau, but set a short distance apart. It looked as though it might have been some sort of hunting lodge.

"These are the quarters of Captain von Spee," the sergeant announced. "He is in command of the prison here, and has ordered me to bring you to him as soon as we arrive. But he will question you one at a time. Which is the senior officer?"

Rusty indicated Hutch. "Hatchet-face would a word with thee," he said. "After you, I'm first."

As Hutch had expected this was the same officer who had met them in the field. When the flyer entered and stood in front of him, the German went through the same ceremony of wiping his monocle before speaking. After he had made a face and screwed the glass back on to his eye, he said, "Your papers, please. And remember, you are my prisoner. If you are correct you will be treated accordingly. If you are not—well, I may say that the builders of this chateau had excellent ideas about accommodating people in solitary confinement. And the river on the far side of the moat makes for great dampness in the cells. Now, I asked for your papers."

Hutch handed them over. The river on the far side of the moat—there was a thought. He knew the river very well. It ran in a fairly straight line to the sea near Concarneau. At low tide there was practically no water in it and even row boats could not pass, but at high tide he remembered river boats running. It was the Odette River, and in summer, excursions on it had been popular before the war. When the tide was going out one could descend it very rapidly by just steering the boat in the channel. This was an idea anyway, gave him something to think about and work on. How to get to the Odette was another question.

"I say," the Captain fairly exploded. "You are an American!"

"Yes,"

"Yes, sir when you speak to me—that is, unless your curiosity about those very damp cells has been aroused."

"Yes, sir." The last thing that Hutch wanted was solitary confinement. If he escaped he must have Rusty with him.

"What are you doing—why are you fighting for England against our glorious Germany?"

Hutch didn't know how to answer this without placing himself in a most unfavorable position. For a moment he thought without saying anything.

"Well, come on. What are you afraid of, Herr American?"

There was a sneer in the way he pronounced American that made the flyer furious. He had never hated anyone so much in his life as he hated this sneering, bemocled Nazi.

"I was fighting for the English because I believe in freedom."

Here and There In Bucks County Towns

The principal speaker at the meeting, which was featured by the serving of a dinner, was Chief Bender, a former baseball pitcher, trainer and scout with the Philadelphia Athletics. Chief Bender gave a very interesting talk on baseball.

A motion picture, "The Ninth Inning," dedicated to the memory of the late Lou Gehrig, was shown by Charles Krouse, who accompanied Chief Bender to the meeting.

Stephen Chappell, president of the host club, presented a Lions club banner to the Warrington organization. Thirty members of the Warrington club attended the meeting.

Dr. William T. Melchior, a native of Springtown, and who has been on the faculty of Syracuse University, has been granted a leave of absence of six months from the university. Dr. Melchior, a son of the Rev. O. M. Melchior, has been appointed a member of a board composed of five educators to make a study of the educational system in Latin America.

Demonstration centers will be established at 16 points in the United States with headquarters in Washington, D. C., at which place Dr. and Mrs. Melchior are at present located. Although stationed there now, his work will take him to various places throughout the country.

American Seamen Show Great Skill With The Big Guns

manned and loaded with shells ready to wing their deadly way to far-off targets.

Almost immediately a cool voice behind me spoke into a loud speaker system.

"Commence firing," said the voice, steady and without emotion.

The big guns answered with a terrific crash. A great belch of fire and smoke encompassed the ship from stem to stern. The black-long craft at full speed seemed to jump out of the water. Then it heeled over and came up sharply with another salvo. Although anticipating what was coming, the first salvo set me back like a hard right to the chin, and the succeeding blasts kept me staggering until I grabbed something, held on and remembered what I was for.

(At that I did better than a cameraman who was with me a few years ago when a ship started firing in practice. At the first salvo he hit the deck flat on his back with his camera on top of him and stayed down for the count.)

It takes an incredibly long time for a shell to reach its mark. Finally oriented, I focussed my glasses and watched the initial explosives land. They were close enough to the fast-moving target to shower it with water or something more substantial.

And from then on they dropped either on their mark or so close that any Japanese in the vicinity, say a Japanese in a submarine, must have thought he was being peppered with gigantic birdshot.

As the big guns eased off, the heavy machine guns took up the ear-shattering chorus, their vicious chattering telling a story of a stream of death moving through the air or over the sea, not unlike a fine stream from a fire hose under fantastic pressure. Then came the cool voice again, with the admonition: "Cease firing."

From an inferno of noise, smoke and fire, the ship at once was startlingly quiet, and sailing smoothly, only wisps of smoke from the guns trailing behind us.

Going down from the bridge, I passed a turret just being emptied of its men.

One, pushing back the flash hood from his black hair, said in the slow drawl of the Texas plains:

"That gun shoots right where she's pointed."

ON THE SCREENS

GRAND THEATRE

Every great comedian in the history of both stage and screen, at some time in his life, has nurtured a burning ambition to turn tragedian, if only for a single performance.

Lou Costello, who appears with his co-star, Bud Abbott; Martha Raye, Carol Bruce, William Gargan and Dick Foran in the comedy riot, "Keep 'em Flying," at the Grand Theatre, is no exception to the rule. If the cherubic Costello could induce a talkie producer to do a remake of "Wuthering Heights" and assign him the part of Heathcliff, he would be the world's happiest male.

BRISTOL THEATRE

An extra-budgeted special, it features such supporting players as Smiley Burnette, Fay McKenzie, Harold Huber, Sidney Blackmer, Arthur Loft, Julian Rivero, Duncan Renaldo, Ruth Robinson, Murray Alper, Joe Sawyer, Thornton Edwards and Paul Fix.

RITZ THEATRE

A star usually chooses for his stand-in, someone who is as similar to him in size and shape as possible, but not so Keye Luke, star of "Phantom of Chinatown," at the Ritz Theatre.

Keye Luke met Gus Gardner when he went to play the part of Cato in "The Green Hornet." Keye has Gus to become his permanent stand-in, despite the fact that Gus is more than six inches shorter and practically bald.

Today's Quiet Moment

(By the Rev. James R. Galley)

Pastor, Bristol Presbyterian Church

O God, our Father, we ask Thee graciously to forgive all that Thou hast seen amiss, and to cleanse our hearts by the inspiration of Thy Holy Spirit, that we may perfectly love Thee and worthily magnify Thy Holy Name. Help us, who have had much forgiven, to forgive others. Keep us from envy and jealousy, from pride and passion, and from everything that would grieve Thy Holy Spirit. May we indeed be dead unto sin, and alive unto righteousness, through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

George Mount, Wood street, is confined to his home by illness. A. Van Gulik, Pond street, is able to be out again after a week's illness.

You Can Spend More Time
On Defense Work If You Use
Hurry-Up Dinner Recipes

You'll have twice as much time to spend on national defense work—whether that means taking a first aid course, rolling bandages at Red Cross workrooms or knitting busily at home—if you plan the family menus around quick-frozen foods. You can really get a tempting, nourishing dinner on the table in less than half an hour if you use these quick-frozen delicacies. All the time-consuming work of cleaning and sorting was done before quick-freezing sealed in the vitamins and fresh flavor of fruits and vegetables right near the fields where they grew. Ocean-fresh fish, too, comes to you ready to cook just as you take it from the carton. All the popular sea food delicacies are quick-frozen nowadays, so fish lovers can enjoy them no matter how many hundreds of miles they live from the shore line.

Quick-frozen vegetables are time-savers, not only because they come to you all cleaned and prepared, but they cook in half the usual time. They have important extra quotas of vitamins and minerals, too, that used to be lost on the trip from field to market.

Fillet of Haddock

BROILED—Use 1 package quick-frozen fillet of haddock (frozen or thawed). Separate fillets and spread with softened butter and sprinkle with salt, pepper and paprika. Place on well-greased broiler and broil 12 to 17 minutes, turning to brown both sides. Serves 2 to 3.

Broccoli with Buttered Crumbs

1 box (12-oz.) quick-frozen broccoli
1 cup boiling water, salted
1/4 cup soft bread crumbs
3 tablespoons butter
1/2 teaspoon lemon juice

Drop frozen broccoli into briskly boiling salted water, bring again to a boil, and boil 5 to 8 minutes, or until stalks are just tender. Drain and season with salt and pepper. Saute crumbs in butter until delicately browned. Add lemon juice. Sprinkle over broccoli and serve at once. Serves 4.

PALUMBO SCORES WITH EASE AND FRANKLIN WINS

Diamond Team Loses Contest By the Score of 55 to 26

VICTORS SCORED EASILY

It Is the First Victory of The Second Half For Franklin

Scoring baskets with great ease, Tony Palumbo and his Franklin teammates ran roughshod over the Diamond Sporting Club, burying that team under a 55-26 avalanche of points.

Palumbo was the main squeeze in the Franklin triumph when he racked up 11 field goals for a total of 22 points. At one stage of the tilt, Palumbo scored five field goals in succession.

The Diamond team was only a shell of itself as it dropped behind in the second quarter and could not recover. Field goals were scarce from the Diamond point of view and its total number of points in the third and second periods was but eight and one-half of this was the result of fouls.

It was the first victory of the second half for the Franklin team and the second defeat for Joe Diamanti's boys.

Line-ups:

PROFY TEAM WINS OVER ST. ANN'S FIVE

As a final gesture before leaving for a U. S. Army camp, Ray Dorsey dropped in a field goal to give the Profy team a close 43-31 victory over St. Ann's A. A. last night on the Mutual Aid floor. Dorsey is due to leave for army training within a day or two.

Failure of the Saints to hold the lead with less than a minute to play was the cause of the Wood Streeters' defeat. They had the lead but failed to "freeze" the ball with the result that it became the possession of the Profy team and Teddy Sak hit the cords with a double-decker which deadlocked the score and set the stage for Dorsey's dramatic bow out of this season's basketball.

Vince Profy continued his high scoring for the winning combination by getting six field goals and three fouls for a total of 15 points to run his total of the year to 115 points. Leader for the losing team was Joe Plehani who registered eighteen points.

The Purple and Gold were also failures from the foul mark, getting but three fouls in twelve tries.

Line-ups:

DUGAN ADVANCES TO FINAL BOUTS

Joseph "Jobby" Dugan, scrappy Third Ward 175 pounder, advanced to the finals of the sub-novice class of the Middle Atlantic district of the A. A. U. tournament last night when he copped the duke from Paul Wiggins, of Wilmington, in a three-round bout at Convention Hall, Philadelphia.

Dugan carried the entire three rounds of a two-fisted affair which saw the Bristolian floor his foe in the second round with a series of rights. Wiggins took the count of three and appeared tired as he finished the second but came back strong in the final round and fought Dugan toe to toe.

"Jobby", who fights under the Green and White colors of the Diamond team, will meet Carl VanLoon, of the Wharton Club, in the finals next Monday night and if victorious will represent Philadelphia in the tournament which opens in New York the following week.

RAMBLERS TAKE TWO WELL-PLAYED GAMES

Sunday night at the Frankford Roller Dome the Bristol Ramblers trounced the Easton Bears by the score of 12 to 2.

In scoring their 13th victory in 14 starts this season, the Ramblers had very little opposition from the Easton club.

The Ramblers scored in every period as they passed the puck around and had the Easton club on the defense the entire evening.

The Bristol club was far superior in puck and stick handling, as the boys from up state were out of their class in playing the Ramblers.

The fast-skating Bristol Ramblers roller hockey club defeated the Jersey City Greyhounds Saturday night at the Leonia roller rink by the score of 7 to 1.

The Ramblers with their fast breaking offensive attack racked up four goals in the first period, from the sticks of George Ritter with two goals, Bill Sottung and Bud Ritter as the Ramblers outskated their much larger opponent.

In the second period the Ramblers scored 2 goals from the sticks of Bill Bell and John Ritter with the Ramblers defense keeping the home team from scoring.

In the third period the Bristol boys denied the nets with two more goals from the stick of Bud Bickert and Johnson, while the Jersey boys were registering their lone tally from the stick of Rhodes.

This was the twelfth victory in thirteen starts this season for the Ramblers.

The Greyhounds had padded their club for the contest with the Ramblers by having the Jacobson brothers of Brooklyn in their line-up. These two Jewish boys led the attack for the Jersey Club.

The Ramblers' defense with Johnson making many beautiful saves at the net and the defensemen Elmer Bowers, Bill Sottung and Reeder checking many of the Jersey boys' rush down the floor.

HIGH SCHOOL TO PLAY HOST TO NEW JERSEY SCHOOL FOR DEAF

Bristol High School, riding on top of the heap in the Lower Bucks County "Big Three" schoolboy league, plays host to the New Jersey Institute for the Deaf quintet on the high school floor tonight. The tap-off is carded for 7:15 sharp and festivities must conclude before the blackout descends.

Both teams handed Morrisville decisive beatings the last time out and an even-Stephen affair is in sight. Bristol, in moving Nick Melidio from center to forward and inserting Ruby in at the pivot, gained backboard control with additional height against Morrisville. DiAngelo will share a forward spot with Accardi and Herrmann manning the guard slots.

The Dear School has ever been one of Bristol's most persistent nemesis and wins over Fred Burbank's squads have been few throughout the hard-fought and extended rivalry. The jayvee fives of the two schools will play the preliminary tussle.
